

Astrology / Family dynamic:

The sun is you.
Mercury is brother.
Venus is sister.
Moon is mother.
Mars is father.

This is not their sign per-say, but how they show up in your life. The energy and archetype they bring. So my Scorpio Venus means my sister will show up in a scorpion way, maybe being secretive or revealing my secrets, being vindictive, sneaky, overly detective wanting to know all my business, maybe I view her as somebody who gets a lot of financial and material gain from others, maybe there's ties to the world of sex as an influence growing up, she studies psychology etc. This energy can come alive when in dynamic that you CONSIDER somebody LIKE a sister. Meaning it can come on with close girl-friends or cousins.

Mercury in Capricorn. Brother is disciplinary. Seems distant, cold, quiet, hard on you. Always trying to advise on the practical way forward. Grandfatherly energy (maybe he's like your grandpa or has some connection to the grandfather somehow/ lives in his home etc.)

Moon in Libra. Mother is sociable, cares about connections and harmony, willing to negotiate, wants to exchange words, always weighing all the components of a decision. To me libra is also adventurous so involves traveling. Also frequently romancing. Also judgey, very concerned with the social norms/culture/ being what they perceive is polite, appropriate, customary, etc.

Mars in Virgo. Critical and oddly specific niche ways. Not clean but their own form of ocd, their methods and systems are detailed but not always efficient or easy. Lots of thoughts and speaking. Opinionated. Delusional. Concerned with righteousness. Considers themselves smart and perfect in many ways. Debatable. Good with long term, planning, stability, practicality, maintenance day to day, the necessary, finances, career, conserving, saving, etc.

Leaves me to hypothesize... what are the rest of the planets??

More like your country, society, state, etc.
Or you could go then into your own family, as in like Jupiter is masculine energy like boyfriends, male-friends, husband, etc. and Saturn is female-friends, girlfriends, wives, etc. With gender fluidity here meaning that you can look to both planets to see what potential partners and friendships will be like. However this is generational long term 6 months-2 years which puts many people in the same boat. Too many? Maybe that actually makes sense cus it's like you and all your friends your age have this one dynamic that is shown by your Jupiter and Saturn placements which are all in the same sign mostly.

Again this is the archetype/energy.

Sagittarius Jupiter meaning someone foreign, or different heritage/ culture background, or while traveling/living abroad, or they literally have heavy Sag placements, or seem to you to be worldly/traveled/creative/philosophical/etc..Attracting dynamics with men that have passion, movement, culture, deep discussion, humor, a masculine tone.

Saturn Pisces meaning someone mysterious, sweet, suspicious, distracted, thoughtful, forgetful, loving, yearning, seeks relationship, private, unique, fulfilling expectations, sensing the energy, artistic, moody, martyr, competitive, conceited, secretive, magical, alluring, tempting, delusional, problematic, fake, dilapidated etc. Attracting dynamic with women that can feel tender, loving, caring, helpful, profound, magical, deep, but also confusing, messy, secretive, like things are happening that aren't being said, a bit scary, mysterious, competitive, sensual, and mind-opening/ having new experiences including meeting people or doing things going places you had not before and may not again without them in your circle.

Once again, these can be interchanged if you are for example with a man who has a quite feminine chart, he will take on the Saturn energy moreso. Or if you have female friends that have more masculine charts, they may take on the Jupiter energies. You yourself may have more energy of the opposite gender traditionally, therefore playing the role of Jupiter as a woman or Saturn as a man, where we would in this context typically put Jupiter as men and Saturn as women.
