

Astrology / Lilith more on it/her:

- ✓ In libra it's that they just want to use you!!! Legit. For one thing or another. Living together is cool though
- ✓ Aries unfortunately can never let the guard down with new people and really will create friction/war when you try to get too close. They are happy to make friends where it's surface level, they just want to do their hobbies and spend time with friends and sleep around (some signs will be tied down but often not faithfully for one of the partners) for me has been the deepest love and deepest cuts. The kind of people you want to party with, drink with, but not go to breakfast with the next morning. Or they're so sober and boring and they still don't let anybody new in because they have their main partner. It's kind of repetitive when you see them sober because it's never something new to talk about... especially if they're saving and working to be financially in a better place they stay super focused on their own victory/career success. However they don't seem to be lucky in that area. They really put a ton of effort into success just to have setbacks or changes or stay the same.
- ✓ Sag is cool for me but they want to def feel freedom so I'd say then we have to be polyamorous haha or something like very open in some ways. They have this self assured confidence but hidden insecure softness vibe. They talk like they always know exactly wtf they're talking about even if it's a very subjective topic. It's often a reflection of their social savvy in the specific culture of the town they grew up in. Whereas it might make them less adaptable in other cultural settings but their confidence and jovial openness to strangers keeps them popular and full of adventure wherever they are. They are also surprisingly able to go long periods doing nothing just being hermit in order to save money or whatever.
- ✓ Leo I think is good for me and my first house, and that placement alone can only bring attraction but not like grounded practical ideas of long term commitment. (Dad, Chris, zaira, taylor) gosh there is definitely fight yelling energy here. Moreso with the men. Heat for better or worse. Good to live with for a while but less than a year and then there can be drama like tension built and explodes then goes away and cycles over and over. With the women I don't really get this though, but I think it's about injustice. I think they're fired up and get loud when they feel people are being wrong or shitty or bullying. Sometimes it's not at me. They def overreact to these topics though.
- ✓ Pisces conjunctions my Saturn was great but definitely illusion, fake love, love bombing, not able to set good boundaries, get timing accurate, etc... like that cliché piscean stuff, not being able to verbalize things. Like will always seem sort of distant from you. Again, good drinking buddy, not partner in life for me. Like surface partying fun but it's scary to be in emotional attachment to them, not good to depend on them in that way emotionally. Very much illusion causing and psychologically damaging to anyone they feel like attacking mentally.
- ✓ Gemini def they've been the most easy to meet spontaneously, childlike innocent, but you know what they hyper sexualize women, immature, like literally all around a 13 y/o in the good and bad ways. Not the best or worse in bed see other placements. Brief. Also stays attached to traditions/desires of family or family property/values etc. They really have this self righteous arrogant self view while also coming across really anxious and self conscious. Where they will argue anything they are doing as the moral thing and are stubborn on this. They are not the most faithful or honest. You have to ask all the right questions to really know the truth or they'll play with words until you figure it out the hard way. The women here are definitely more likely to be faithful and commit than the men.
- ✓ Taurus for sure are caught up in the idea of a person and place. More materialistic than they typically admit or realize. Even if they aren't beautiful themselves, they like their surroundings to be. The mother often forces herself to be in their life always even though it's a point of some pain and tension it's also a source of relief and comfort. They don't want to disappoint the traditional expectations of the parent that raised them or the community. They just really go with the crowd around them. So if they move they'll change to be with that social norm. They go for people they think are impressive or better than themselves in some way but they can also have a variety of types. These people travel. Work hard play hard. Don't have the best bodies either. Love good food but also are happy to do physical activity often. Can make friends wherever they go and are generally fun, thoughtful and engaging albeit sometimes flaky or unpredictable friends. They definitely don't put their friends before their own success or romance or sexual conquests. These people are often scarred and hurt through their romantic and sexual connections. They don't get mad and blow up at friends until they've known you a long time like at least a year or two of seeing each other often. Very loyal until they've known your disloyalty in any way then they change drastically. Kind of promiscuous when single, def always open eyed for where their next romance will be but not always doing the effort to get it.

☑ Scorpio for sure guarded in their hearts, mostly open to friendships, want to decide what we will do and when (power), asking so much, remembering, like keeping tabs unless they have placements to counteract and add independence, but they want to keep stuff from you.

☑ Cancer lilith, like they got you but you know within reason. I feel like personally they don't fit my version of nurturing, but they're trying, like they aren't afraid of your feelings/needs etc. it's more up to me and if I trust them. I feel like they need me kind of. Kind of boring. Open to having me in their home. Weird common spaces like feel eerie empty cheap and not the best party stock for day to day meals. They have a strong paternal family patriarch and they're matter of fact, grounded types. They are likely to pick partners that really aren't good enough for them or cheat. They can be bad about thinking your intentions are the opposite of what they are for better or worse.

☑ Capricorn -> idk man they do be working, but I think they like me from afar, I've never had it up close. Maybe too traditional for me meaning masculine and feminine roles? From one I barely knew seemed generous but shady. Headstrong. But he is a Leo sun. Def into Capricorn sun. Wait no. Ceara, see bookmark site post very accurate

☑ Virgo lilith definitely into virgo sun and virgo mars. Def up his own butt. Offended if you don't respond. Definitely want you more when they think you have a hidden wild side but keep things conservative on the surface, the more you try to be good the more they want to see if you'll cross a line ? worded wrong but you get it! Gym bro, stock bro guys, very mid/basic, even if they have an interesting back story/ foreigner.

☑ Aquarius lilith too, seemed to desire being unique for sure but god complex. Shady and creeping and pretending to be moral/have honor. Scheming, manipulative, but not like scary physically. Not hurting you unless you get too close and trust their BS which I would not :) like the humanitarian image helpful job but not to those closer to them, complaining about their unfair life. Hard working, independent. Staying aloof mysterious or at a distance. Quick to change direction be unexpected unpredictable.
