

Self/It so funny

Says the universe to me and I to it all This is you:
 I want to get there as quick as possible Before others would make me have the edge
 But I don't want to wait for them to catch up But I don't want to be there totally alone always And I don't like repetition so I don't want to keep going there again and again
 But I want others to see what I see Only if it benefits them and me equally So... I don't know How to fit everything into reality simultaneously.
 How to make you happy

No it's not that want to get there before others... it just feels like I get there and then I see somewhere higher to go and before I know it everyone I knew before is out of sight behind down below and they can't hear me and I can't hear them.

I would love somebody running at the same pace as me who doesn't impede my path or speed but we break simultaneously. I can speak my mind but not get stuck in time. Evolving/changing freely. I show them things and they show me and it all makes sense because we are living in the same frequency.
